

POSTMASTER DECISION IS POSSIBLE TONIGHT

CONGRESSMAN, DEMOCRAT LEADERS MEET TO CONFER ON APPOINTMENT FOR CITY

Herrmann, Hunsicker or Hays to Be Choice Following the Civil Service Examination; Underwood Visits Here Monday Afternoon; Lauds List of Applicants.

A definite decision concerning the next Circleville postmaster is possible this evening when the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee and Congressman Mell G. Underwood meet in the auditor's office at 7:30 o'clock.

The three candidates who are to be considered are Karl J. Herrmann, business manager of the Herald; Clark K. Hunsicker, grain elevator operator; and Hulse

Hays, farm manager. The applicants finished in the order named in the U. S. Civil Service Examination the result of which was announced last week.

Mr. Underwood, who visited in this city for a short while Monday afternoon, announced that additional persons announced as eligible last week in a despatch from Washington, are not to be considered by the committee this evening. Why the names of Lowell M. Brown, Thomas W. Brown, Miss Marguerite Clark, L. C. Hammel and Herbert Hammel were announced as eligibles was as much a mystery to the New Lexington congressman as it was to local party leaders.

Committee To Vote

The committee under the direction of Chairman C. A. Leist, will vote upon the three applicants and naturally the one receiving the greater number will have the committee's endorsement for the position. Then it is up to Congressman Underwood. He does not have to announce whether or not he will also endorse the committee's choice. He may return to his home in New Lexington and later determine whom he will give his support. There is no question concerning who has the authority to officially endorse the postmaster; that is Mr. Underwood.

In the few minutes he was here Monday afternoon, Mr. Underwood said: "I always like to work with the committee although sometimes our opinions differ."

Mr. Underwood has recognized the committee inasmuch as he asked it to meet to endorse an applicant. Congressman Arthur Lammek of Columbus, did not even show the Franklin-co Democratic committee that courtesy naming the postmaster without calling the committee.

Other Matters Too

Two other matters are also scheduled for disposition this evening; they are an applicant for the postmastership at Williamsport and an applicant for the state highway patrol.

Mr. Underwood's telegram to Mr. Leist last Saturday saying that he would meet with the committee stated that the Williamsport Postmastership is also being considered. Upon his arrival here Mr. Underwood learned that the term of Burt H. Moore, present postmaster there, does not expire until 1936 but Mr. Underwood told Mr. Leist that he had been instructed by the postoffice department to consider a Democrat for the job.

The congressman was non-committal concerning the merits of either of the three applicants for the local postoffice. He said this, however: "The entire list of applicants for the Circleville job was one of the finest it has been my pleasure to look upon. There were many who sought the office who could have made this city an excellent official."

Members of the executive committee who will vote this evening are:

C. A. Leist, S. T. Rife, John S. Ritt, Harry J. Briggs, Harry W. Moore, J. D. Hummel, E. S. Neuding, George G. Adkins, and T. D. Krinn, this city; A. J. Dunkle, Circleville; Roy White, Darby; T. B. Ephart, Deer Creek; Walter Hedges, Harrison; G. C. Cline, Ashville; James List, Jackson; W. E. Arnold, Madison; J. M. Tootle, Monroe; Jesse Pitt, Muhlenberg; John T. Dick, New Holland; Adam Reub, Scioto; Turney Pontious, Pickaway; J. R. Hott, Scioto; O. M. Beckett, Commercial Point; Joe E. Cromley, Walnut; Adam Kuntz, Washington; and Ward Peck, of Wayne.

AYERS IN DENIAL

CHILLICOTHE, Oct. 10.—John Ayers, of Harrison-twp., formerly of Circleville, pleaded guilty Monday to an indictment of first degree murder in the death of John Bentley.

Ayers is charged with shooting Bentley with a shotgun.

Louis M. Day is his attorney.

Robert Long, of Columbus, visited Saturday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Long, E. Franklin-st.

WINKLER MURDER BREAKS RECORDS IN UNDERWORLD

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The murder of Gus Winkler, Capone gang chieftain, set a new record for underworld killings.

Seventy-three shotgun slugs penetrated Winkler's body. The previous high mark was set three years ago when machine gunners killed Joe Aiello with 58 direct hits.

THREE WRECKS ARE REPORTED

Hood and Bales Cars Collide in Alley Monday Afternoon

WALLACE CAR HIT

Hopetown Woman Suffers Head Injuries

Three accidents occurring in the past two days have been reported here.

Mrs. Cora Rader Hood, Pickaway-twp., escaped serious injury when her automobile and that of R. K. Bales, E. Main-st., crashed at the alley intersection in the rear of the Presbyterian church at 4 p. m. Monday.

Mrs. Hood was driving south toward Mount-st. and Bales was going west toward Court-st. when the accident happened. Mrs. Hood's Chevrolet was pushed against a telephone pole. Both right and left sides were damaged. The Chevrolet was taken to the Leach Motor Co. garage.

The Buick sedan of Ed Wallace, W. Main-st. bakery proprietor, was damaged Monday evening when it was struck by a hit-skip car at Kerr and Popular-sts., Columbus. The car was driven by Mrs. Carl Wallace who had taken Miss Marvane Wallace to the Stella Becker school of dancing.

Mrs. Wallace had started to drive up town when the accident happened.

The hit-skip driver came out of a side street, hit the Wallace car, then smashed into a tree but was able to make a getaway.

Mrs. Rosie Quick, of Hopetown, Ross-co., is recovering from a cut on her head which required five stitches to close when the parked coupe in which she was sitting near the Thorpe garage on the Columbus-pk., near Chillicothe, was struck from the rear by another car, driven by Thomas U. Stockton, this city.

The accident happened at 9:45 p. m. Sunday.

Gilbert Quick, a son of the injured woman, had gone up the road to obtain gasoline when the accident happened.

Stockton blamed faulty lighting on the Ross-co. car.

FLORIDA BALLOTS ON REPEAL TODAY

Farley Makes Fervent Plea; Claim Republicans Making Drive Party Issue

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 10.—Florida voters went to the polls today with a stirring appeal from Postmaster-General James A. Farley for Democrats to uphold the party repeal program ringing in their ears, to decide whether the Peninsula state is to become the 33rd successive commonwealth to repudiate the 18th amendment.

Farley, at Tampa last night, in addressing a huge repeal rally predicted confidently the state would swing into the wet column by a two-to-one vote.

Dry, however, had made a desperate last-minute stand to bring out the vote and political observers, their eyes cocked warily on the large rural areas, predicted a "touch-and-go" decision.

Republicans, too, who muster a large bloc in this state of cosmopolitan population, were being accused of attempting to make the repeal question a party issue in an effort to embarrass the Democratic administration.

ROWLEY HEADS SELECTS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 10.—C. A. Rowley, Ashtabula, today headed the Ohio Select List, a group of newspaper publishers, following the annual meeting here yesterday. A. A. Hoopingarner of Dover was elected vice-president and C. H. Spencer of Newark secretary-treasurer.

Names of Members Of Committee To Be Secret; Must Write Complaints

COUNTY SURVEY ON

Letters Should Be Written Dowden, Parrett

Operation of the N. R. A. locally was discussed Monday evening when members of the advisory committee met in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Durward Dowden, president of the Chamber of Commerce and committee chairman, presided.

Mrs. Dowden related that a local compliance committee is functioning and that complaints should be made in writing either to himself or to Mack Parrett Jr., secretary of the advisory group. The identity of the compliance committee will not be made public but Mr. Dowden assured that it is comprised of representatives of business, professions, labor and consumers and that any complaints made in writing will be properly handled.

It is believed that by keeping the names of members of the committee secret better results can be obtained.

It is the compliance committee's duty to determine if firms operating under the Blue Eagle are living up to its provisions.

Mr. Dowden also announced that D. L. Buchanan, superintendent of county schools, has reported to him that the consumers' canvass being conducted through the county schools is progressing nicely and will be completed by the end of this week.

Payroll Thieves Escape Officers

WARREN, Oct. 10.—A close-knit search drag-net was thrown over all northern Ohio today for three daring bandits who held up two bank messengers in broad daylight on a downtown sidewalk in Warren yesterday and escaped with a money bag containing a consignment of $68,000 for the Second National Bank here.

Two of the bandits, apparently depending upon the lightning

swiftness of their action for success, executed the holdup while an accomplice manned a sedan automobile in which the trio made their getaway, trailed a few minutes later by police and county authorities.

The bandits fled out of town on Market Street, which leads into

DAVIS FILES DENIAL

Election Board Wants Decision of Court

Predictions today are that Judge J. W. Adkins will grant a permanent injunction to Charles Niles, S. Washington-st., in his petition against the Board of Elections seeking to enjoin that body from putting an initiative petition seeking a vote on municipally-owned utilities on the ballot this fall.

The original petition was brought by L. C. Hammel, Ward W. Robinson and Noah G. Spangler who asked that the city vote to determine whether or not it wants municipal plants.

A statute violation is believed to be the basis on which Judge Adkins will grant the permanent injunction stopping the vote. The original petitioners, it is claimed, failed to file a copy of the proposed ordinance with the city auditor as ordered by the law. Since this statute is mandatory it is thought by attorneys that the petition will be declared null and void.

Prosecutor Ray W. Davis, legal advisor for the Board of Elections, has advised that body to declare the petition void because of this irregularity. The board, however, wants the matter settled by the court since Niles, as a taxpayer, filed his petition there.

Prosecutor Davis, Tuesday afternoon, filed a denial of the allegations in Niles' petition as requested by the board and it is expected Judge Adkins will set a date for hearing as soon as it is possible. He favors Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning but has not yet definitely set the time. Other attorneys in the case are Weldon and Weldon and Charles Gerhardt representing Niles.

KELLY NAMED AS ABDUCTOR

Witness Identifies Man 'With Strawberry Dun Hair' as Implicated

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 10.—"There is the man."

In these words, and pointing an accusing finger from the witness stand at George ("Machine Gun") Kelly, gangster on trial for kidnapping, E. E. Kirkpatrick, the "contact man" in the Urschel case, today identified Kelly as the man to whom he turned over a grip containing the $200,000 ransom in Kansas City, Mo., a week after Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire was abducted.

Kirkpatrick was asked by United States District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde if he was positive the man who got the ransom money was Kelly.

"Oh, yes," replied Kirkpatrick. "That's the fellow sitting there with the strawberry dun hair."

Kelly's hair, dyed a lemon yellow, has made him the object of amused comment in the court room. It is now streaked with crimson as a result of Kelly having been struck on the head yesterday by a federal agent during an altercation.

Kelly's lawyer, James C. Mathers, frankly admits he does not think his client has a ghost of a chance against the array of evidence the government is building up against the gunman and killer. But Kelly, who is going through with the trial in the hope of helping Kathryn, his slim, 29-year-old wife, is trying to live up to his role of a devil-may-care "bad man."

Kelly has been advised not to make any more false moves. He was told he would be shot the next time he "pulls a stunt."

Administration Sets Up Committee To Kill Securities Act

WASHINGTON—The secret drive of Big Business to kill the Securities Act is getting more intense.

What Wall Street wants to do is hamstring the Act by eliminating the civil liability clauses. As now written, the Act makes corporation directors executives, even accountants liable for damages if through misleading the public, any investor loses money.

So potent is this propaganda that an Administration committee has been set up very quietly to change the Securities Act and also to modify the bank deposit guarantees in the Glass-Steagall Bill.

Members of this committee are:

John Dickinson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who represented Sullivan and Howell, attorneys for various Wall Street organizations. William Stanley, Assistant Attorney general and Jim Farley's man at the Justice Department.

A. A. Berle, Jr., member of the Brain Trust, and expert adviser on banking and railroad questions.

Arthur H. Dean, member of the firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, as an advisory member.

Their job is to kill the Securities Act as painlessly and quietly as possible.

Colonel Ickes

"I hear the Governor of Kentucky is in town looking for Public Works money," someone remarked to Secretary Ickes the other day. "Wonder who the next Kentucky colonel will be?" mused the Public Works czar in reply.

Later in the day, Governor Ruby Laffoon, hearing of the remark, said: "Wait till I get back to Kentucky, I'll send Ickes a commission."

Debt Lobbyists

A revealing fact regarding the payment of war debt installments last June has just leaked out—much to the irritation of French and British diplomats.

It seems that just before the one 15 payment was due, it became known that Finland intended to pay in full. It also was apparent that she was the only country that would.

So the British and French ministers to Finland called upon the Finnish Government and urged that it not set too difficult a precedent for the other debtor countries.

After considerable embarrassment, the Finns ignored the advice. They paid in full.

Principal Payment

That the Administration is lining up in war debt negotiations is a British agreement to pay all the principal.

This totals something over $4,000,000,000. Since half of that already has been paid, and since the dollar has now depreciated to around 65 cents, the actual payment would approximate something over $1,000,000,000 in gold. Treasury officials think the United States would be satisfied if Britain paid the principal only. Interest would be sacrificed as a contribution to the common cause. They also think the British will never go higher. Everything of course depends on the stabilization of the dollar.

Miami Facing Marshall "11"

COLUMBUS, Oct. 10.—Lifted eyebrows of surprised interest were turned toward Huntington, W. Va., today by Ohio football followers who aroused themselves to speculation upon the candidacy of a scrappy Marshall College gridiron eleven for "dark-horse" honors in the Buckeye conference.

Despite the fact that it is a newcomer to the ranks of the Buckeye conference, the Marshall football team junked formalities last Saturday roughly introduced itself as being serious about the league title decisively whipping Wittenberg, 19 to 0.

The showing of the West Virginia school had a disturbing effect among true-blue Ohio members of the conference and where there was once an air of condescension, today there was an attitude that politeness would no longer be necessary with the Marshall eleven. In other words—they asked for it. Marshall is scheduled for a hard test this week when the Herd goes to Oxford for a game with Miami, the conference champions and considerable interest is directed toward the game, which will be the only official Buckeye league contest during the week-end. The other four league teams are slated for non-conference tussles.

The spark-plug of the Marshall eleven is a chap by the name of John Zontini, half-back. Two weeks ago when Marshall stepped on Transylvania for a 38 to 0 victory, Zontini scored two touchdowns and two extra points. He repeated with two more touchdowns against Wittenberg last week-end.

As a result, the word going the grape-vine route of the Buckeye conference camps is "watch Zontini."

While Marshall and Miami get together under the spotlight in the center of the Buckeye conference stage this week-end, Ohio Wesleyan is scheduled to meet Syracuse for the sixth time. The showing of the Bishops against the New York squad is expected to give some indication of what sort a bid Wesleyan will make for the conference title.

TERRY SIGNS FOR 5 YEARS

New York Manager Reported Getting $40,000 Annually After Good Work

Bill Terry, who led the New York Giants to a world championship the first year he piloted the team, today had signed a five year contract as player-manager for a salary reported at $40,000.

The statement of Charlie Stoneham, president of the club, said: "The New York Giants are glad to announce that they have signed Bill Terry to a five year contract as manager. While no terms are announced, it can be definitely stated that both parties to the contract are greatly satisfied with the terms. At the same time Terry signed a player contract for an equal five year period."

Purpose of Chain Letter
A chain letter is a species of superstition, the exact origin of which is unknown. The receiver of such a letter is enjoined to make several copies of the letter and mail them to friends. Failure to do so is said to break the chain and bring bad luck. The craze was especially prevalent following the World war.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S a town in Missouri where the high-toned folks all go to the Episcopal church and the rest mostly goes to the Methodist and Baptist churches. The Episcopal church is small, and there ain't but one of it, but there's several of the others.

Well, one day a lady called on the pastor of a Baptist church and says, "Say, parson, I wonder if you'd mind coming to our house to see my husband. He's pretty sick, and he'd kinda like to talk to a minister. He gets lonesome for a good old hymn or something. He ain't a bad sort, and he goes to church regular when he's well."

"Sure," he says, "I'll go right up with you now. So your husband is a church member? Are you, too?"

"Oh yes, I always go."

"Ain't it funny," says the minister, as they were getting near the house. "I don't seem to remember ever seeing you at church at all."

"No," she says. "I reckon not. We go to the Episcopal church. We both got awful good families back East. But, you see, I couldn't ask our own minister to come to the house now, because there's only one Episcopal minister in town, and my husband's got the smallpox."

Gridiron Notes

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 10.—Smoother operation of Northwestern's backfield cheered Dick Hanley today as the Wildcats drilled for the Stanford game Saturday.

Wally Cruise, sophomore right halfback, suddenly returned to the sensational form flashed in spring practice, reeling off consistent gains against a freshman eleven.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Coordination of a ragged Chicago line and a powerful ground gaining backfield, occupied Coach Clark Shaughnessy today in drill for the game with Washington university.

Ed Cullen, placed at center in a surprise move Saturday against Cornell college, apparently has cinched the post.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 10.—The veteran unbeaten Boilermaker football team of Purdue was having its troubles today. Loss of Fred Hecker, backfield star, through injuries and the indifferent showing of the team set Coach Noble Kizer to work rebuilding the team.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 10.—Minnesota hailed a new backfield star today in Julius Alfnse, right halfback. Alfnse, declared eligible last week, turned in an outstanding performance in yesterday's drill in preparation for the Purdue game Saturday.

SENATORS TO REMAIN SAME
Cronin Contemplates no Changes in Lineup of Washington Nine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The 1933 edition of the Washington Senators will remain intact for next season's campaign, Joe Cronin, youthful pilot of the American league champions declared today as he prepared to depart for his San Francisco home.

Cronin expressed satisfaction with his present roster, giving unstinted praise to all his regulars and substitutes. He spent yesterday conferring with President Clark Griffith of the Washington club on plans for the 1934 pennant fight.

"We have a fine team and contemplate no trades at this time," Cronin said. "There are no weak spots in our regular line-up. A fine array of reserves is ready on the bench."

To the avalanche of criticism levelled against his managerial strategy during the world series, Cronin shrugged his shoulders and assumed a philosophical attitude.

"The dividing line between heroes and goats in the national pastime certainly may be called microscopic," he stated.

HELP PREVENT FIRES OCTOBER 9TH TO 14TH

This week is set aside to emphasize the importance of guarding against fire. Do your part to prevent loss of life and property. Then, as always, follow these precautions for greater safety.

Extinguish matches before throwing away. Do not use inflammable substances for cleaning. Burn rubbish, put out camp fires, keep matches away from children! It's a patriotic obligation.

Fire Prevention Aids Recovery Program

For the first eight months of 1933 the National Board of Fire Underwriters estimates the national fire loss at $224,904,141, as compared with $310,078,321 for the same period in 1932.

With such a wonderful start on reduction of fire losses for the year, Fire Prevention Week, which started yesterday and continues through this coming Saturday, should give added impetus to the fire prevention movement and encourage the making of a record for low fire losses. This would be a blessing to the nation in its recovery struggle.

Fire causes the loss of thousands of lives annually. Men lose jobs and wages, the government collects no taxes on burned buildings. It is estimated that 43 per cent of business houses which burn annually, do not resume operations.

Insurance costs are based on the losses — whether your own property burns or not, you pay insurance because it is part of the cost of operation in all business. Let every man and woman be their own fire inspector — look at the heating plant, clean up the basement, take trash out of the attic, dispose of oil or paint covered rags, fix wiring connections and check a hundred other things you can do to prevent fire. Be careful of matches and smoking.

Farmers should be doubly concerned about fire and use every preventative measure possible, because they have little protection once a fire is started.

Fire Prevention Week draws attention to the importance of fire prevention and activities against the fire hazard should continue throughout the year.

Fire destroys life, property, progress and prosperity.

The old fashioned furnace carries fire menace in carbon clogged pipes. GAS HEAT is clean, regular, no trouble. And it is cheaper because it eliminates fire hazards, it saves furniture from soil, may be regulated to any temperature at any time.

School Exhibit Is Proven Success In Initial Year

Jackson-twp schools carried off the bulk of the awards in the county school exhibit, an added feature of the Pumpkin Show. The school exhibit, made possible through untiring efforts of Superintendent D. L. Buchanan and of the various superintendents, principals and teachers of the county, is certain to be repeated next year and from then on it popular demand means anything.

County winners deserve much credit for the quantity, quality, variety and artistic arrangement of their displays. Those who did not win prizes deserve commendation for their efforts.

Following is the complete list of prize winners:

General Exhibit

First grade high school, elementary; Jackson-twp, first; New Holland, second.

Two or more rooms elementary; Wayne-twp, first; Madison-twp, second.

First grade high school, Monroe-twp, first; Jackson-twp, second.

County-wide elementary; Jackson-twp, first; Wayne-twp, second.

'DOUG' IN DENIAL OF ROYAL VOWS

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Reports he is planning to marry Lady Ashley, a former British actress, were denied today by Douglas Fairbanks through Tom Geraghty, screen writer and a lifelong friend.

"Regarding the Lady Ashley reports," Geraghty said, "this is the first time Mr. Fairbanks has heard it, and if he is going to marry her it is news to him."

Through Geraghty, Fairbanks refused to comment on a despatch reporting that Mary Pickford plans to file suit for divorce against him in Mexico within a few days.

"You may quote Mr. Fairbanks as saying that he feels any announcement whatsoever should come from Miss Pickford," Geraghty said.

BOMBS USED ON STEEL PICKETS

WEIRTON, W. Va., Oct. 11.—State police hurled a half-dozen tear-gas bombs into a crowd of several thousand strikers and also spectators outside the Weirton Steel company mills today as the steel company attempted to reopen its plant after weeks of idleness.

The crowd, jeering the troopers, scurried away but re-formed again and began to return.

About 200 workmen entered the mill gates this morning.

A Quicker Way To Ease Headaches

HERE I AM... A BIG DINNER PARTY ON HAND... AND ANOTHER OF MY BAD HEADACHES. WHAT CAN I DO?

EVER TRY BAYER ASPIRIN? TAKE 2 TABLETS AND YOUR HEADACHE WILL BE GONE IN A JIFFY!

2 BEFORE THE DINNER

THAT BAYER ASPIRIN YOU SUGGESTED IS SIMPLY WONDERFUL! MY HEADACHE WAS ENTIRELY GONE IN A FEW MINUTES—

I KNEW IT WOULD BE... BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST!

A Discovery that's Bringing Fast Relief to Millions

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And this is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, see that you get the genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate. What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence, its fast action.

Statistics Sought

STATISTICS compiled by Federal and State Labor departments, confirmed by national private agencies, including the American Federation of Labor, showed that the great army of unemployed numbered 14,000,000 last March. The consensus of estimates made by such sources up to mid-September was that about one fourth of that vast horde of disconsolate individuals had been restored to gainful employment through the operation of the National Recovery Act.

On October 9, about 3,000,000 employers of two or more persons throughout the country received a questionnaire from President Roosevelt with a message which read: "Two months ago I invited you to enter into an agreement with me to aid industrial recovery by shortening hours and increasing wage rates. The time has come to take stock. The information here requested is necessary to determine the progress we have made."

Employers were asked for comparative figures on employment and payroll totals for the two pay periods ending July 15, 1933, and October 14, 1933. These results to be available only to sworn employees of the Census Bureau and to be treated as strictly confidential, will disclose the actual situation. The extent to which additional efforts must be put forth and preparations for feeding and clothing and housing those unfortunate not yet absorbed into industry will then be known, and Americans must act accordingly. Despite depleted local treasuries, this terrible task confronts us and is utterly unavoidable.

Fortunately, the load will be lightened to the extent that our people enter into the second phase of the vitally essential public co-operation for which the President appealed and without which he assured us recovery is impossible. Now the duty is no longer that of employers. It is apparent that, with few exceptions, they are complying with the President's Reemployment Agreement. By this time the significance of the Blue Eagle is well understood. Under that symbol of recovery prices are sure to advance. Of that natural consequence of increased pay rolls in every industry the President warned us when he signed the Recovery Act on June 16. To serve our own purpose it is imperative that we now lay in our winter's supplies.

Germany's Aims

GERMANY proclaims at Geneva her peaceful intentions while seeking the right to rearm. She is pictured by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Reich minister of public enlightenment and propaganda, as concentrating her efforts and energies on reconstruction with no thought of preparing herself to wage war at present or in the future. She wishes to rearm only for defense purposes and to act as a barrier against the spread of communism.

France, however, remains skeptical, and the world will see some justification for this attitude. It will recall that during his reign the present ex-kaiser repeatedly emphasized his love of peace. At the same time, he continued to build up what he hoped would prove an invincible war machine. Nor did he fail to use the latter as a threat in support of his foreign policies.

A very similar situation exists in Germany today. Although professing love of peace, the expressed aims of Hitler point directly toward war. In no other way can Germany hope to realize the program laid out by Hitler, which includes territorial expansion and the recovery of German colonies lost as result of the war. Attainment at these aims hardly could come in any other way than by the waging of war.

France realizes this as must any student of present conditions. However desirous of peace the Hitler government may be, the government's program clearly forecasts war.

The Legion may not know it but there were orders from the commander-in-chief.

THAT'S MY BOY!

by FRANCIS WALLACE
AUTHOR OF "HUDDLE"

SYNOPSIS

Tommy Randolph, future football hero, was "always different" even as a baby. Born in a tiny Middle West factory town, he was the delight of his humble parents, Mom and Pop. The latter, a durable Democrat, wanted to name the boy William Jennings Bryan, but Uncle Louie, another indubitable Democrat, prevailed in having the infant christened Thomas Jefferson. Sturdy little Tommy paid no attention to strange baby carriage ogles until Ole Lize, feared and aged colored woman, peered like a witch at him one day; he smiled, and Mom was amazed when the cackling crone put "a good wish" on him....

CHAPTER TWO

But Mom never forgot that good wish; and when Tommy was growing up she knew it was a good wish because the way things happened. He was always the same, never afraid of things kids were supposed to be afraid of; always getting his way and being the head of things; and when Ole Lize came along the street he would never run like the rest of the kids, even Pete, and keep his hand over his mouth like they did. The saying was that she counted their teeth and as many as she counted would fall out before long; of course, little children lost their baby teeth anyhow but just the same there was hardly anybody in Athens, big or little, who didn't shut their mouth when Ole Lize came along.

But the first time Tommy just stood his ground and waited; and when she came by he called out: "Boogy!"

Mom was afraid to look then because that was crossing the old thing; but instead of putting a bad wish on him, she just shook her head from side to side and smiled; and then Tommy smiled too; and after that when she came along and the other kids would run Tommy would walk beside her and smile; he never called her "boogy" any more. None of the other kids could make it out; they always looked at Tommy's teeth afterward; and Mom often thought it was from that that Tommy got to be different from the other kids, sort of afraid of nothing and better than the others; sometimes she thought he was afraid but just wouldn't admit it; she couldn't make it out; neither could the other kids; but Tommy grew up different. Everybody kind of expected him to be doing things always the other kids didn't.

Pop had tried to tame him down but he couldn't make him cry and Mom finally put her foot down and wouldn't have any more of Pop's beating him just to show who was boss. Tommy seemed to understand early that Pop was mostly talk and not really a hard man at all; and they sort of reached a compromise. When Tommy did something Pop put on a big fuss but didn't lay a hand on him; and then Tommy went on and did as he pleased afterwards.

When Tommy finished the grammar grade Pop decided it was time for him to go to work and got him a job. Tommy did go down the first night and put in a turn carrying over on the vase shop; but he came home at eleven o'clock with his poor hands burnt with blisters and his poor face burnt red and said they had knocked off for the night; and Mom fed him and put him to bed.

At four in the morning Pop came home storming and said Tommy had run off and they didn't have a boy in the shop for the second turn; he was all for getting Tommy up and lamming him but Mom wouldn't have it. That morning when Tommy got up and Pop was still asleep she spoke to Tommy about it, pretending to be madder than she was but he always knew how far he could go with her. He was cute about it, she thought afterward. He promised he'd be back in time for work that night; so she put on some extra food and packed his basket along with Pop's; but when it came time for Pop to go to the factory there was no Tommy; and Pop went away raving, saying he would be ashamed at the factory for having such a son.

When Tommy came in like a dog that had lost its home, Mom didn't say what she had intended to but just got out the things on the stove and left him there by himself to do it. Pete was working day turn but he didn't say much to Tom either. He might have said a lot, Mom thought, because Pete was a great worker. When he finished at the factory he'd usually fool around the garage by the corner and they said already he could take a car apart and put it together again. Mom couldn't tell whether Pete just gave Tom up as a bad job or what. After supper Tom got dressed and went down town. The little rascal had a girl already.

The next morning Pop did wake him up and gave him a lamming but he couldn't make him cry and Mom didn't know what to do. She knew Pop was right and that something should be done about Tom before he became a scallywag altogether; but still, she knew Tom was different from the other boys and she couldn't believe he was really bad or even quite lazy although she admitted he was never the help around the house that Pete was.

It was bad enough, Mom thought, but it would have been worse if the neighbors had got hold of it. Mrs. Johnson wasn't so bad but if Mrs. Farrell ever got wind of it it would be all over town. Mrs. Farrell had a boy of her own and she was jealous of Tommy anyhow because he had always been a strapping boy while her Joie was a poor sickly sort of thing who had worn glasses since he was eight and would catch cold if the wind blew on him. Of course the boy couldn't help that and he was an all right boy, too, and real friendly like; he and Tommy got along all right if his mother stayed out of it.

Mom finally quieted Pop down; because even though he said he didn't care what the neighbors thought she knew that he did because nobody in town wanted that long tongue of Mrs. Farrell's on them; and by the time she got through telling it nobody would ever recognize what had really happened.

And the next day it blew over anyhow. Tom went out again after breakfast and came back all excited in the afternoon saying he had a job around the office of the News. Pop pretended to be scornful of this, saying that the newspaper was no good anyhow as it was a tool of the capitalists and only printed a lot of bunk about the booster clubs and that sort of stuff. The only decent thing about it was the sport page and that had too much football and not enough baseball and fights. Pop was a great one for Dempsey and Babe.

But there was really nothing much he could do about it as the job paid more than Tommy could make at the factory. Pop gave it up by saying it was a sissy job with no future to it and that the men at the factory would wonder what kind of a man he was to raise a son like that; but in his heart Mom knew he was secretly pleased no matter what he said.

Mom saw what was coming next and she knew what would happen. Late in August Tommy began to talk about going to high school and Pop hit the roof like it was some sort of disgrace to have a son who wanted to go to high school and was too good for the factory.

Mom didn't know what she thought except that she remembered the good wish Ole Lize had put on Tommy; and although she felt funny about it in church every Sunday Mom always told herself that it wasn't as if Tommy was under the devil's protection—it was just that the devil wasn't against him; and now that Ole Lize was dead and gone, Mom doubted that she had had much power anyhow but was maybe just a poor old thing that people talked about.

Uncle Louie came back from a convention just in time. He said to Pop: "Remember, we gave the boy a great name to live up to."

Pop stormed: "Abraham Lincoln didn't go to high school."

Then Pete stepped in. Pete had always been different from Tom—not slow but not so fast, either; a good steady boy any mother would be proud of. Devilish, of course, but what good was a boy who wasn't? Not wanting to get his feet washed before supper every night; coming home with a stumped toe for Mom to put a rag around; playing sly little tricks on her which somehow warmed Mom's heart because they let her know he loved his mother in a kind-of-nice little way without really saying so; always wanting to sell papers or smash baggage at the railroad station before he was knee-high to a duck; and running off to the factory on Friday night to get in a turn when he wasn't big enough to dry his nose in the glory hole, Pop said—although Pop was proud and said Pete was a chip off the old block. When he finished grade school they wanted him to go to high school and play the football but Pop had said he didn't have any money to spend on broken bones—so Pete had gone to the factory.

Pete didn't usually talk much but now he spoke right up to Pop: "We've got enough workingmen in this family now—give the kid a chance to learn something."

Pop plainly regarded this as traitorous. "I suppose he's too good for the factory."

"Maybe he is," Pete said. "Find out, anyhow—if he isn't he'll always come back."

And there really was nothing much Pop could say because at the News they had fixed it so Tom could work after school and on Saturdays and he could make enough to clothe himself.

The next thing was the football; and, strangely, Pop didn't raise nearly as much fuss as Mom had expected.

"I give him up," Pop said. "He don't take after me; but if he comes home with his bones broken let the school look after him."

Mom accepted the insinuation that Tom took after her. She did have a great hankering about the world outside of Athens. It was her Uncle Louie who had almost been postmaster and who was still a big Democrat in the town. Mom did want her boy to have a chance and she had a sort of strange confidence that he would do something. Mom had a fierce pride in Tommy that surprised her; that almost made her speak out to Pop; but that would only get him started again; and Mom always believed the easiest way was the best way.

And knowing Pop, she had a feeling that most of his complaint about school was trumped-up; she had a feeling he felt that he ought to say things like that to prove he was a father and loyal to the factory. Pop was a funny one; he did a lot of talking but he never really did anybody any harm. Underneath he had a big heart and nobody knew it any better than Mom.

TROOP 158

The meeting Monday night was in charge of Jr. Asst. Scoutmaster, Eliza Paxton and Sr. Patrol Leader Mark G. Maxey.

After the roll call and the respects to the flags the troop was led in some exercises by Scoutmaster Betts. The new patrol leaders were then assigned their respective corners and selected patrol names. Patrol leader and assistants and names as selected are: Wolf patrol, James Price and Edward Ebert; Hawk, William File and Paul Miller; Panther patrol, Franklin Glitt and Raymond Francis; and The Cuckoo patrol, Dudley Iles and Paul Styers.

A few games were played and the patrols gave their yell. Then announcements were given by Scoutmaster Betts. The troop was thanked by the Pumpkin Show Society for its services during the Show last week. The boys were informed that eight prize streamers were won by the troop in its window. These included four firsts, three seconds and one third. The firsts were won by Mark G. Maxey, Donald Beatty, Carl Martin and James Denman; the seconds by Mark G. Maxey, Robert Betts, and James Denman; and the third by James Denman. A new patrol grading system to go into effect next meeting was also explained.

After the troop was dismissed by repeating the scout benediction, sandwiches, furnished by the Legion Auxiliary, were enjoyed. Robert Betts has been appointed scribe and Bob Styers, official test-passer.

Care of the First Teeth Important

One Way to Prevent Dental Worries in Later Life

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

"BRUSH YOUR teeth twice a day and see your dentist at least twice a year," is familiar advice heard over the radio. Yet I wonder how many of the listeners in the nation-wide hookup heard this warning.

In the sixteenth century, so-called dentists advised that "to keep teeth healthy eat a mouse once a month and fumble the mouth with smoke from onion seeds." I can readily understand why such revolting advice as this should be spurned, but it is difficult to understand why any sensible person should fail to follow the advice of the modern dentist.

No one will deny that there has been a marked change in the medical and dental world as regards disease. In former years every effort was made to cure disease. Today emphasis is placed upon the prevention of disease as well as the cure. At one time the extraction of diseased and decayed teeth was a common dental practice. Today the dentist helps prevent decay and so avoids the necessity of pulling teeth. With proper dental care this can be accomplished.

To keep good teeth through life is only possible when adequate dental care is given in childhood. The visit to the dentist should be made before the first back teeth, the molars, appear. If everyone were given this early attention there is no doubt that fewer teeth would be lost in adult life and serious constitutional diseases would be avoided.

In addition to the necessary hygiene and care of the teeth, proper dental health requires a well balanced diet. The diet is especially important for young children before the appearance of the permanent teeth.

Bear in mind that a diet lacking in certain vitamins leads to cavity formation and diseased teeth. For this reason fruit juices are advised for the infant as early as the fourth week. Strained orange juice or tomato juice, and cod liver oil, given in early childhood, will assure your child healthy and strong teeth.

I cannot overemphasize the importance of periodic visits to the dentist for the child and adult. Care of the temporary teeth will insure strong and sturdy teeth.

Do not be misled by the thought that since the first teeth are temporary they require little attention. This is wrong. Let me warn you again against neglect of the teeth. Do not assume that since you have no pain or discomfort your teeth are healthy. Whether they are or not only the dentist can determine.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative is measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative brings perfect movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it! And the habitual use of irritating salts, or of powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets may prove injurious.

A week with a properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will tell you a lot. Few weeks' time, and your bowels can be "as regular as clockwork." Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given to your youngest child. NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF ASSIGNEE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified by the Probate Court of Pickaway County Ohio, as assignee of the estate of Hervey J. Swever, in trust for the benefit of the creditors of said Hervey J. Swever. Creditors are required to present their claims according to law.

ORION KING, Assignee.

Dated at Circleville, Ohio, this 2nd day of October, 1933.

(Oct. 3, 10, 17).

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO

Proposing to repeal section 9 of article XV of the constitution of the state of Ohio, relative to prohibition.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, That there shall be submitted to the electors for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1933, a proposed amendment to the constitution of the state of Ohio, to the effect that:

That there shall be placed on the official ballot in the manner provided by law in such form as the Secretary of State may designate, if the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, section 9 of article XV of the constitution of the state of Ohio shall be repealed and annulled.

Adopted March 1, 1933.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, STATE OF OHIO.

Office of the Secretary of State.

L. GEORGE S. MYERS, Secretary of State of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original Joint Resolution adopted by the 90th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 1, 1933, and now on file in my office and in my official custody as Secretary of State, and found to be true and correct. Said Joint Resolution was filed in the office of the Secretary of State on March 7th, 1933, and proposes to amend the constitution of the State of Ohio by repealing section 9 of article XV, which reads as follows:

"ARTICLE XV, SECTION 9. The sale and manufacture for sale of intoxicating liquors as beverages are hereby prohibited. The General Assembly shall enact laws to make this provision effective. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the manufacture or sale of such liquors for medicinal, industrial, scientific, sacramental or other non-beverage purposes."

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 14th day of September, A. D. 1933.

ington, come back here to live, maintain offices and representatives in the Nation's Capital.

Andrew W. Mellon, although far removed at present, continues in closest touch with Washington. Not only does he maintain his luxurious apartment on Massachusetts Avenue, but he keeps his fingers on the national pulse through two representatives. They are:

Donald D. Shepard, Mellon's attorney with offices in the Investment Building.

David Edward Finley, Mellon's intelligent and active assistant in the Treasury and his secretary at the Court of St. James. He has established offices in the American Security and Trust Company where he can look across the street to the Treasury he once helped to govern.

But he has also helped to guide Italian destinies through many rivalries with France. . . . So at his table he serves, not good French wine, but Italian Asti Spumanti. . . . It could be better. . . . Pittsburgh's multi-millionaire former mayor, E. V. Babcock, has offered to sell the government at a bargain price, more than 50,000 acres of land that he owns in the Tennessee Valley. The property is the connecting link between the Great Smoky and Cherokee National Parks. If the government buys the land it will complete ownership of more than 1,000,000 acres in the Tennessee Valley.

PROF. ROOS IS SPEAKER AT MONDAY CLUB MEET

Prof. Frank J. Roos, Jr., Art instructor at Ohio university, Athens, was the speaker for the evening at the Monday club meeting held last night in the club rooms.

Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer, presided at the session. During the business transactions the following delegates were elected to attend the South East district meeting to be held at Jackson, O., Oct. 19 and 20. Miss Carrie Johnson, Mrs. Glenn Nickerson and Mrs. Walter Kindler. Alternates are Mrs. Hulse Hays, Mrs. Clark Will and Miss Abbe Clarke.

At the close of the short business meeting the program was in charge of the architecture division.

Prof. Roos gave an illustrated lecture on "Development of Domestic Architecture in America."

The early settlers of New England were poor people and they reproduced in the new land the type of home they had been accustomed to having in the old, using the material at hand, mostly the fifteenth century type with the overhanging or projecting stories. This proved to be efficient in Indian fighting. Several of these old houses are to be found near Boston with the steep pitched roof, a necessity in all north countries to throw off the heavy snows, very little ornamentation as the colonists' home was like his life—very simple and plain.

The oldest church in the country is St. Luke's at Jamestown, a truly Gothic type. The Southern homes were of different character, the planter being a much richer man with more refinement of living. The Rolfe house, built by the husband of Pocahontas, is one of the earliest brick houses in the South.

Westover, the ancestral home of the Byrd family, is a splendid example of early Georgian, both in details of construction and furnishings.

The major characteristics of the Georgian type were in broken periment, with the effect of dignity and formality, rich carvings and sweeping curves.

Several illustrations were given of the Southern Georgian home in contrast to the Northern Georgian type.

After the Revolution we have the Early Republic period, Bullfinch and Samuel McIntyre, L'Enfant, Jefferson, leading exponents of the classic revival. The classic revival period lasted until about 1840, then came the Romantic or revival of the Gothic, which in various forms is still in use.

Of the modern school, Frank Lloyd Wright, is the greatest, although not so well recognized in America because of his radical ideas. The Century of Progress exposition has brought many new ideas in building, with vertical and horizontal lines, the modern idea.

For centuries our only building materials were wood, stone, brick, stucco, but within the last ten years over 2,000 new materials have been perfected for use in home building, so we can expect to see revolutionary changes in architecture. We should admire each period for itself, no need for competition between them as each form fulfilled a definite necessity or function.

But in buying the new modern furnishings we should keep in mind that any modern art that is uncomfortable is bad art.

LEGION AUXILIARY INSTALLS OFFICERS

A covered-dish dinner at seven o'clock in charge of Mrs. Paul Betz preceded the annual installation of officers of the American Legion Auxiliary Monday evening in the Post rooms at Memorial hall. Fall flowers and pumpkins decorated the tables for the dinner.

Mrs. E. T. Hedges, past district president, served as installing officer. New officers include Mrs. John Ward, president; Mrs. I. W. Kinsey, first vice president; Mrs. Tom Lake, second vice president; Mildred Karshner, secretary and Mrs. Ferd Picken, treasurer.

Mrs. Ward made several appointments. Mrs. James Cook, chaplain; Mrs. William Betts, child-welfare chairman; Mrs. B. T. Hedges, hospital chairman; Mrs. Katherine Mead, historian; Mrs. Gladys Wiggins and Mrs. Hazel Merz, sergeants at arms. Other appointive officers will be named at a later meeting.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 13, with Mrs. William Betts chairman of the lunch committee.

MRS. GLEN GEIB ENTERTAINS CLUB

Members of her bridge club and Mrs. Sterling Lamb and Mrs. Joe Burns were guests of Mrs. Glen Geib, S. Scioto-st., Monday evening, when she entertained at a pleasant evening of contract bridge.

Three tables were in play with high score prizes at the conclusion of the game going to Mrs. Walter Denman and Mrs. Lamb.

Awaiting Her Fate

Charged with smuggling a gun to her gangster husband with which he killed a keeper and himself while attempting a break from Raymond Street or Jail, New York, Mrs. Cecelia McCormick is shown as she awaited the verdict in Kings County Court.

WESTMINSTER BIBLE CLASS HAS MEETING

The Westminster Bible class of the Presbyterian church held its October meeting Monday evening in the social room of the church which was attractively decorated in unique Halloween figures and paintings. The beauty of the room was enhanced by the soft glow from lamps and candles placed here and there.

A devotional period preceded the business meeting which was presided over by Mrs. Charles Smith, president. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the class secretary, Mrs. Aletha Lucas, and Mrs. I. S. Shane gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. W. W. Robinson gave a report on new members that have been added to the roll and Mrs. Stanley Lewis reported on a project to raise funds for the Sidney Home.

At this juncture Mrs. E. S. Toensmeier gave a splendid report on the first two chapters of a book on the Lives and Customs of the Women of Oriental Countries. Mrs. George McDowell will give a report on the next two chapters of the book at the November meeting.

Mrs. D. L. Buchanan notified members that Mrs. Paul Gearhart would read the palms of members present and a silver offering from the source would be given to the class treasury. Mrs. Gearhart is a gifted palmist and her readings were a real pleasure to those participating.

A clever biblical contest was introduced by Mrs. Buchanan and prizes were awarded Mrs. E. S. Toensmeier and Mrs. W. W. Robinson.

The members and guests were invited to a prettily appointed table, attractive with gay Halloween decorations, where delectable refreshments, in keeping with the spirit of Halloween were served.

The committee in charge of this delightful affair included Mrs. D. L. Buchanan, chairman, Mrs. J. O. Esgeleson, Mrs. Harp VanRiper, and Miss Margaret Clark.

SURPRISE DINNER HONORS BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Charles Yapple, E. Franklin-st., assembled several friends for dinner Sunday at her home as a pleasant surprise for her husband on his birthday anniversary.

Enjoying the affair were the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox, of Hallsville; Mr. and Mrs. Denver Lutz and children, John Allen, Ellis, Leland, Esther and Benny of Amanda; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore and grandson, Junior, and Fred Maley, Mrs. Mary Arledge and Scott, Moore of Groveport; Miss Charlotte Weddig of Westerville, and Mrs. Minnie Yapple and son, Glenn.

GARDEN CLUB WILL MEET THURSDAY

The Pickaway-co Garden club will meet in regular session Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Monday club rooms.

Mrs. C. C. Watts will give a paper on Fall Gardening and a question box will be in charge of Edwin Haacker.

Reports of the state convention being held in Columbus Tuesday and Wednesday will be given by the delegate, Mrs. James Moffitt.

M. E. CHURCH DAY IS THURSDAY

The Methodist Episcopal church will hold its monthly church day Thursday with the Women's Foreign Missionary society meeting at 10 a. m. Lunch will be served at 11:30 and the Ladies' Aid society will convene at 1 o'clock. The Women's Home Missionary society will hold its session at 1:30 p. m.

MRS. STEELEY TO ENTERTAIN

Mrs. George Steeley, E. Main-st., will be hostess to members of the Sew and So club Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock.

PERSONALS

Miss Sophia Parks, S. Scioto-st., is reported recovering nicely at Grant hospital, Columbus, following a goiter operation last week.

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

VOL. 4. NO. 41

Published by STEVENSON'S

Tuesday, October 10, 1933

We wish to thank those that helped to make possible the building of those three living rooms that we showed during the last 'Biggest and Best' Pumpkin Show. One of our local doctors told the "editor" that his wife said that our window display was one of the most attractive in the entire Show. Lady, we thank you.

If our window was a success it was thru the kindness of the following persons who furnished the materials: Mrs. Irwin Boggs, Mrs. Grace Wentworth, Misses L. & E. Mader, and Delano Weaver. We are also indebted to the following young ladies, who dressed in the fashions of the same period that the various rooms represented: Mrs. Myles Beeler, Ruth Dunlap, and Margaret Butler, who represented ladies in the "Parlor of the 19th Century." Misses Grace Steele, Ann Vierebome, Mary Hall, and Betty Morris, who posed as hostesses in the "Sitting Room of 1900;" Misses Mary Ellen Phillips,

Marjorie Mader, Louise Helwagen, and Dorothy Fausnaugh, representing the ladies of today in "Today's Living Room."

As we have said before, if our display was a success, ladies and gentlemen, it was all due to your assistance and we thank you one and all. We believe that the visitors enjoyed it, judging from their interest.

Interest during the Show was centered in the Estate Heatrola. We were kept busy explaining why and how this famous heater keeps the floors warm at the base of the heater and why it gives more heat with less fuel. And our time was not wasted either, for several purchased before leaving the store. In fact, some of them demanded that their new purchases be installed at once. If you, gentle reader, were not one of those that placed their order for an honest-to-goodness Heatrola, just you drop in right now and let us explain the How and Why to you so that you, too, may enjoy "June warmth" during the coming winter.

There's a home up north of Roundtown that is enjoying as fine a coal range as ever graced a kitchen. It is in the very latest style and in gleaming ivory porcelain. You've guessed it - it's an Estate Heatrola range. And when it comes to value - we'll not take our hat off to any of them. If you don't believe that we have a real range, just drop in soon and look it over.

Did you notice those fine looking baby carriages in the baby parade during the Big Show? All of them, of course, were not WHITNEY carriages, but many of them were and they came from this store.

A housewife in Roundtown needed an extra bed for her home and it had to go in a room where she did not want a real bed. We sold her a dandy studio couch with inner-spring mattresses.

Our Engineers Will Furnish Reliable Information
On Your Heating Problems—Without Charge

Gas Heat Lowers Medical Expenses

Those Up - And - Down Temperatures
Cause Most Winter Ailments

The house is too cold—you "fire up" the old-type furnace and the temperature becomes uncomfortably warm. You check the fire or it burns down—your body is overheated and the house is cold. Sooner or later, sickness follows this continuous procedure. You pay for medical supplies, perhaps for the services of a doctor, and always lose either in time off from work or in efficiency.

Gas Heat Presents Another Picture

This expense, discomfort and aggravation are not found in homes enjoying the even, automatically-controlled temperature of gas heat. Neither do such families pay excessive cleaning and redecorating charges made necessary by the damages of smoke, soot, ashes and furnace dirt. They are relieved of the expense of storing fuel, tending the furnace and removing ashes. These many incidental expenses bring the cost of using ordinary fuel well above the amount paid for the greater convenience of gas heat.

When you know ALL the facts, you will want gas heat as a measure of economy. Phone The Gas Company for complete information on how to—

POSTMASTER DECISION IS POSSIBLE TONIGHT

Administration Sets Up Committee To Kill Securities Act

WASHINGTON—The secret drive of Big Business to drive the Securities Act is getting more intense.

What Wall Street wants to do is hamstring the Act by eliminating the civil liability clauses. As now written, the Act makes corporation directors executives, even accountants, through misleading the public, any investor loses money.

So potent is this propaganda that an Administration committee has been set up very quietly to change the Securities Act and also to modify the bank deposit guarantees in the Glass-Steagall Bill.

Members of this committee are:

John Dickinson, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who represented Sullivan and Lowell, attorneys for various Wall Street organizations. William Stanley, Assistant Attorney general and Jim Farley's man at the Justice Department.

A. A. Berle, Jr., member of the Brain Trust, and expert adviser on banking and railroad questions.

Arthur H. Dean, member of the firm of Sullivan and Cromwell, as an advisory member.

Their job is to kill the Securities Act as painlessly and quietly as possible.

Colonel Ickes

"I hear the Governor of Kentucky is in town looking for Public Works money," someone remarked to Secretary Ickes the other day.

"Wonder who the next Kentucky colonel will be," mused the Public Works czar in reply.

Later in the day, Governor Ruby Laffoon, hearing of the remark, said:

"Wait till I get back to Kentucky. I'll send Ickes a commission."

Debt Lobbyists

A revealing fact regarding the payment of war debt installments last June has just leaked out—much to the irritation of French and British diplomats.

It seems that just before the June 15 payment was due, it became known that Finland intended to pay in full. It also was apparent that she was the only country that would.

So the British and French ministers to Finland called upon the Finnish Government and urged that it not set too difficult a precedent for the other debtor countries.

After considerable embarrassment, the Finns ignored the advice. They paid in full.

Principal Payment

That the Administration is holding at in war debt negotiations is a British agreement to pay all the principal.

This totals something over $4,000,000,000. Since half of that already has been paid, and since the dollar has now depreciated to around 65 cents, the actual payment would approximate something over $1,000,000,000 in gold. Treasury officials think the United States should be satisfied with the British plan. The contribution to the common cause. They also think the British will never go higher. Everything of course depends on the stabilization of the dollar.

Old Haunts

Public life casts an aura over a wealthy man which he seldom can shake off no matter how buffeted he has been while in office. Many of them, unable to pull their roots from the soil of Washington, are still there.

CONGRESSMAN, DEMOCRAT LEADERS MEET TO CONFER ON APPOINTMENT FOR CITY

Herrmann, Hunsicker or Hays to Be Choice Following the Civil Service Examination; Underwood Visits Here Monday Afternoon; Lauds List of Applicants.

A definite decision concerning the next Circleville postmaster is possible this evening when the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee and Congressman Mell G. Underwood meet in the auditor's office at 7:30 o'clock.

The three candidates who are to be considered are Karl J. Herrmann, business manager of the Herald; Clark K. Hunsicker, grain elevator operator; and Hulse

Hays, farm manager. The applicants named in the U. S. Civil Service Examination the result of which was announced last week.

Mr. Underwood, who visited in this city for a short while Monday afternoon, announced that additional persons announced as eligible last week in a despatch from Washington, are not to be considered by the committee this evening.

Why the names of Lowell M. Brown, Thomas W. Brown, Miss Marguerite Clark, L. C. Hammel and Herbert Hammel were announced as eligibles was as much a mystery to the New Lexington congressman as it was to local party leaders.

Committee To Vote

The committee under the direction of Chairman C. A. Leist, will vote upon the three applicants and naturally the one receiving the greater number will have the commission.

Then it is up to Congressman Underwood. He does not have to announce whether or not he will also endorse the committee's choice. He may return to his home in New Lexington and later determine whom he shall give his support.

There is no question concerning who has the authority to officially endorse the postmaster; that is Mr. Underwood.

In the few minutes he was here Monday afternoon, Mr. Underwood said: "I always like to work with the committee although sometimes our opinions differ."

Mr. Underwood has recognized the committee inasmuch as he asked it to meet to endorse an applicant. Congressman Arthur Lambeck of Columbus, did not even show the Franklin-co Democratic committee that courtesy naming the postmaster without calling the committee.

Other Matters Too

Two other matters are also scheduled for disposition this evening; they are an applicant for the postmastership at Williamsport and an applicant for the state highway patrol.

Mr. Underwood's telegram to Mr. Leist last Saturday saying that he would meet with the committee stated that the Williamsport Postmastership is also being considered. Upon his arrival here Mr. Underwood learned that the term of Bertus H. Moore, present postmaster there, does not expire until 1936 but Mr. Underwood told Mr. Leist that he had been instructed by the postoffice department to consider a Democrat for the job.

The Congressman was non-committal concerning the merits of either of the three applicants for the local postoffice. He said this, however: "The entire list of applicants for the Circleville job was one of the finest it has been my pleasure to look upon. There were many who sought the office who could have made this city an excellent official."

Members of the executive committee who will vote this evening are:

A. Leist, S. T. Rife, John S. Ritt, Harry J. Briggs, Harry W. Moore, J. D. Hummel, E. S. Neuding, George G. Adkins, and T. D. Krinn, this city; A. J. Dunkle, Circleville-twp.; Roy White, Darby-twp.; T. B. Gephart, Deercreek-twp.; Walter Hedges, Harrison-twp.; G. C. Cline, Ashville; James List, Jackson-twp.; W. E. Arnold, Madison-twp.; J. M. Toole, Monroe-twp.; Jesse Pitt, Muhlenberg-twp.; John T. Dick, New Holland; Adam Reub, Scioto-twp.; Turley Pontious, Pickaway-twp.; Melvin Armstrong, Sattercock-twp.; J. R. Hott, Scioto-twp.; O. M. Beckett, Commercial Point; Joe B. Cromley, Walnut-twp.; Adam Kuntz, Washington-twp.; and Ward Peck, of Wayne-twp.

ACTRESS REQUESTS GOVERNOR TO FREE ROAD GANG CONVICT

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Oct. 10.—Mae West, the actress, today protested to Gov. James Rolph against the removal of a fugitive from California to South Carolina.

The southern state is seeking the return of Ben Jones, alias C. D. Cooper, movie projectionist, asserting that he escaped from a prison road camp while serving a life sentence for murder.

"One of the boys who worked with me at a Hollywood studio is in a terrible jam and I would appreciate your refusing extradition," Miss West wrote Rolph. "Now, Jim, you know that I know men and if there ever was a man who appeared innocent it is Jones. In Ben Jones we have an example of a useful citizen and a job awaits him here."

Hood and Bales Cars Collide in Alley Monday Afternoon

WALLACE CAR HIT

Hopetown Woman Suffers Head Injuries

Three accidents occurring in the past two days have been reported here.

Mrs. Cora Rader Hood, Pickaway-twp., escaped serious injury when her automobile and that of R. K. Bales, L. Main-st., crashed at the alley intersection in the rear of the Presbyterian church at 4 p. m. Monday.

Mrs. Hood was driving south toward Mount-st. and Bales was going west toward Court-st. when the accident happened. Mrs. Hood's Chevrolet was pushed against a telephone pole. Both right and left sides were damaged.

The Chevrolet was taken to the Leach Motor Co. garage.

The Buick sedan of Ed Wallace, W. Main-st. bakery proprietor, was damaged Monday evening when it was struck by a hit-skip car at Kerr and Popular-sts., Columbus.

The car was driven by Mrs. Carl Wallace who had taken Miss Marvane Wallace to the Stella Becker school of dancing.

Mrs. Wallace had started to drive up town when the accident happened.

The hit-skip driver came out of a side street, hit the Wallace car, then smashed into a tree but was able to make a getaway.

Mrs. Rosie Quick, of Hopetown, Ross-co., is recovering from a cut on her head which required five stitches to close when the parked coupe in which she was sitting near the Thorpe garage on the Columbus-pk. near Chillicothe, was struck from the rear by another car, driven by Thomas U. Stocklen, this city.

The accident happened at 9:45 p. m. Sunday.

Gilbert Quick, a son of the injured woman, had gone up the road to obtain gasoline when the accident happened.

Stocklen blamed faulty lighting on the Ross-co. car.

FLORIDA BALLOTS ON REPEAL TODAY

Farley Makes Fervent Plea; Claim Republicans Making Drive Party Issue

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Oct. 10.—Florida voters went to the polls today with a stirring appeal from Postmaster-General James A. Farley for Democrats to uphold the party repeal program ringing in their ears, to decide whether the Peninsula state is to become the 33rd successive commonwealth to repudiate the 18th amendment.

Farley, at Tampa last night, in addressing a huge repeal rally predicted confidently the state would swing into the wet column by a two-to-one vote.

Trys, however, had made a desperate last-minute stand to bring out the vote and political observers, their eyes cocked warily on the large rural areas, predicted a touch-and-go decision.

Republicans, too, who muster a large bloc in this state of cosmopolitan population, were being accused of attempting to make the repeal question a party issue, in an effort to embarrass the Democratic administration.

ROWLEY HEADS SELECTIONS

COLUMBUS, Oct. 10.—C. A. Rowley, Ashtabula, today headed the Ohio Select List, a group of newspaper publishers, following the annual meeting here yesterday.

WINKLER MURDER BREAKS RECORDS IN UNDERWORLD

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—The murder of Gus Winkler, Capone gang chieftain, set a new record for underworld killings.

Seventy-three shotgun slugs penetrated Winkler's body. The previous high mark was set three years ago when machine gunners killed Joe Aiello with 58 direct hits.

Names of Members Of Committee To Be Secret; Must Write Complaints

COUNTY SURVEY ON Letters Should Be Written Dowden, Parrett

Operation of the N. R. A. locally was discussed Monday evening when members of the advisory committee met in the Chamber of Commerce rooms. Durward Dowden, president of the Chamber of Commerce and committee chairman, presided.

Mr. Dowden related that a local compliance committee is functioning and that complaints should be made in writing either to himself or to Mack Parrett Jr., secretary of the advisory group. The identity of the compliance committee will not be made public but Mr. Dowden assured that it is comprised of representatives of business, professions, labor and consumers and that any complaints made in writing will be properly handled.

It is believed that by keeping the names of members of the committee secret better results can be obtained.

It is the compliance committee's duty to determine if firms operating under the Blue Eagle are living up to its provisions.

Mr. Dowden also announced that D. L. Buchanan, superintendent of county schools, has reported to him that the consumers' canvass being conducted through the county schools is progressing nicely and will be completed by the end of this week.

MYERS BRINGS ACTION

George T. Myers, contractor, has filed suit against the General Railway Equipment Co. for $455.11 on an account for concrete and materials on installation of a turbine. Tom A. Renick is his attorney.

ASKS MODIFIED DECREE

Thomas Martin, of Ashville, has brought action in common pleas court to modify a divorce decree given his former wife, Mrs. Sarah F. Martin. He asks custody of a minor son through his counsel, Tom A. Renick.

ACCOUNTS APPROVED

Two final accounts were approved in probate court, Monday, by Judge C. C. Young in the matters of Marie Abernethy, executor of the estate of the late Margaret Henry, and of Noah Wrightsl, executor of the estate of the late Henry Wrightsl. Exceptions to the inventory and final account were withdrawn in the latter case.

HEAR APPLICATIONS

Judge C. C. Young, Monday, heard applications to declare two men, William Decker and Floyd Raser, both former Scioto-twp. residents, deceased. Both men have been gone a number of years.

Notice will be advertised, according to law, and if the men have not put in an appearance within 15 weeks they will be declared legally dead.

BANK TAKES PROPERTY

The Second National bank, Monday afternoon, bid in the property of Mrs. Elizabeth Moeller, S. Court-st., for $4,125. The sale followed a foreclosure obtained by the bank with $4,277 as the amount sought. Charles Dresbach represented the bank.

FINDING IS MADE

Franklin Gayle Calvert, Ashville, R. F. D., has been allowed a finding of $4,411.77 with interest from Nov. 6, 1929 in an action against his father, Berman Calvert. Tom A. Renick was the plaintiff's attorney.

DONALDSON DIVORCE

Mrs. Margaret Donaldson, Pleasant-st., has filed divorce proceedings in common pleas court against Lawrence Donaldson, of Columbus, whom she charges with extreme cruelty and that he has been too intimate with another woman.

They were married here Feb. 22, 1927 and have a daughter, aged 3. Besides divorce the plaintiff seeks alimony and custody of the child.

Tom A. Renick prepared the petition.

Payroll Thieves Escape Officers

WARREN, Oct. 10.—A close-knit search drag-net was thrown over all northern Ohio today for three daring bandits who held up two bank messengers in broad daylight on a downtown sidewalk in Warren yesterday and escaped with a money bag containing a consignment of $68,000 for the Second National Bank here.

Two of the bandits, apparently depending upon the lightning

swiftness of their action for success, executed the holdup while an accomplice manned a sedan automobile in which the trio made their getaway, trailed a few minutes later by police and county authorities.

The bandits fled out of town on Market Street, which leads into

WARREN, Oct. 10.—Witnesses to the daring daylight bank messenger holdup here yesterday selected the pictures of three men who, they said, resembled the bandits.

One of the men was behind the bars in a Cleveland jail, the second in the county jail here and a third in the Mansfield reformatory.

The holdup of the bank messengers was one of the most daring ever executed here. It was carried out with such surprising suddenness that the two bank messengers, Charles Wolf and Frank Fisher, were caught unawares and unprepared to resist the bandits.

The loot which the bandits obtained was consigned from the federal reserve bank at Cleveland to the bank here. It was intended for use by several local concerns in meeting payrolls.

COLUMBUS SEEKS $725,458 FUND

COLUMBUS, Oct. 10.—The goal of this city's eleventh annual Community Fund drive will be $725,458, the board of directors had decided today in setting Nov. 20 to 29 as dates for the campaign.

The goal is approximately $170,000 less than last year's, and $30,000 less than the amount that was actually pledged in the 1932 drive.

The figure established as this year's goal has been accepted as the minimum budget as presented by the goal committee after a preliminary survey of the 13 participating organizations' budget. Stewart Hoover, chairman, said:

"Twenty-seven teachers and 900 pupils from the first to the twelfth grades will be effected, he said. The school, cut off from state aid has a deficit of $10,000 he revealed.

DAVIS FILES DENIAL

Election Board Wants Decision of Court

Predictions today are that Judge J. W. Adkins will grant a permanent injunction to Charles Niles, R. Washington-st., in his petition against the Board of Elections seeking to enjoin that body from putting an initiative petition seeking a vote on municipally-owned utilities on the ballot this fall.

The original petition was brought by L. C. Hammel, Ward W. Robinson and Noah G. Spangler who asked that the city vote to determine whether or not it wants municipal plants.

A statute violation is believed to be the basis on which Judge Adkins will grant the permanent injunction stopping the vote. The original petitioners, it is claimed, failed to file a copy of the petition with the city auditor as ordered by the law. Since this statute is mandatory it is thought by attorneys that the petition will be declared null and void.

Prosecutor Ray W. Davis, legal advisor for the Board of Elections, has advised that body to dismiss the petition void because of the irregularity. The Board, however, wants the matter settled by the court, since Niles, as a taxpayer, filed his petition there.

Prosecutor Davis Tuesday afternoon, filed a denial of the applications in Niles' petition as required by the board and it is expected Judge Adkins will set a date for hearing as soon as it is possible. He favors Wednesday afternoon or Thursday morning but has not yet definitely set the time. Other attorneys in the case are Weldon and Weldon, and Charles Gerhardt representing Niles.

KELLY NAMED AS ABDUCTOR

Witness Identifies Man 'With Strawberry Dun Hair' as Implicated

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 10.—"There is the man."

In these words, pointing an accusing finger from the witness stand at George ("Machine Gun") Kelly, gangster on trial for kidnapping, E. E. Kirkpatrick, the "contact man" in the Urschel case, today identified Kelly as the man to whom he turned over a grip containing the $200,000 ransom in Kansas City, Mo., a week after Charles F. Urschel, oil millionaire was abducted.

Kirkpatrick was asked by United States District Attorney Herbert K. Hyde if he was positive the man who got the ransom money was Kelly.

"Oh, yes," replied Kirkpatrick. "That's the fellow sitting there with the strawberry dun hair."

Kelly's hair, dyed a lemon yellow, has made him the object of amused comment in the court room. It is now streaked with crimson as a result of Kelly having been struck on the head yesterday by a federal agent during an altercation.

Kelly's lawyer, James C. Mathers, frankly admits he does not think his client has a ghost of a chance against the array of evidence the government is building up against the gunman and killer. But Kelly, who is going through with the trial in the hope of helping Kathryn, his slim, 29-year-old wife, is trying to live up to his role of a devil-may-care "bad man."

Kelly has been advised not to make any more false moves. He was told he would be shot the next time he "pulls a stunt."

The Noecker building on E. Main-st. occupied by Hildebrand, Jones and James Stout was entered Monday night and 15 or 20 pennies were stolen.

Miami Facing Marshall "11"

COLUMBUS, Oct. 10.—Lifted eyebrows of surprised interest were turned toward Huntington, W. Va., today by Ohio football followers who aroused themselves to speculation upon the candidacy of a scrappy Marshall College gridiron eleven for "dark-horse" honors in the Buckeye conference.

Despite the fact that it is a newcomer to the ranks of the Buckeye conference, the Marshall football team junked formalities last Saturday roughly introduced itself as being serious about the league title decisively whipping Wittenberg, 19 to 0.

The showing of the West Virginia school had a disturbing effect among true-blue Ohio members of the conference and where there was once an air of condescension, today there was an attitude that politeness would no longer be necessary with the Marshall eleven. In other words—"they asked for it."

Marshall is scheduled for a hard test this week when the Herd goes to Oxford for a game with Miami, the conference champions and considerable interest is directed toward the game, which will be the only official Buckeye league contest during the week-end. The other four league teams are slated for non-conference tussles.

The spark-plug of the Marshall eleven is a chap by the name of John Zontini, half-back. Two weeks ago when Marshall stepped on Pennsylvania for a 38 to 0 victory, Zontini scored two touchdowns and two extra points. He repeated with two more touchdowns against Wittenberg last week-end.

BOSTON TEAM SETTING PACE

Griders Make Over 1,000 Yards in Four Games of Pro Ball

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The Boston Redskins are setting a record pace in ground gaining according to National Football League statistics compiled today. The Boston eleven has gained 1008 yards in four games, the only squad to make over a thousand. In point getting the New York Giants with 60 are the leaders.

Portsmouth, knocked out of the lead by Green Bay, has the best defensive record having yielded only 458 yards. The Packers with 26 passes completed in 54 attempts are the best aerial team but despite their proficiency in this respect did not throw a single pass in beating the Spartans.

RED BIRDS WIN

CARLE, Oct. 10.—The Columbus Red Birds, American Association team which holds first honors this year in the minor leagues, today counted their fifth straight victory of a barnstorming tour. With Mickey Heath and Nick Cullop doing the pitching, they defeated the Carey team here yesterday 5 to 0.

Gridiron Notes

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct. 10.—Smoother operation of Northwestern's backfield cheered Dick Harty today as the Wildcats drilled for the Stanford game Saturday. Wally Cruise, sophomore right halfback, suddenly returned to the sensational form flashed in spring practice, reeling off consistent gains against a freshman eleven.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—Coordination of a ragged Chicago line and a powerful ground gaining backfield occupied Coach Clark Shaughnessy today in drill for the game with Washington university. Ed Cullen, placed at center in a surprise move Saturday against Cornell college, apparently has cinched the post.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 10.—The veteran unbeaten Bollinger football team of Purdue was having its troubles today. Loss of Fred Hickey, backfield star, through injuries and the inefficient showing of the team set Coach Noble Kizer to work rebounding the team.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 10.—Minnesota drilled a new backfield star today in Julius Alfonsi, right halfback. Alfonsi, declared eligible last week, turned in an outstanding performance in yesterday's drill in preparation for the Purdue game Saturday.

TERRY SIGNS FOR 5 YEARS

New York Manager Reported Getting $40,000 Annually After Good Work

Bill Terry, who led the New York Giants to a world championship the first year he piloted the team, today had signed a five year contract as player-manager for a salary reported at $40,000.

The statement of Charlie Stoneham, president of the club, said:

"The New York Giants are glad to announce that they have signed Bill Terry to a five year contract as manager. While no terms are announced, it can be definitely stated that both parties to the contract are greatly satisfied with the terms. At the same time Terry signed a player contract for an equal five year period."

Purpose of Chain Letter
A chain letter is a species of superstition, the exact origin of which is unknown. The receiver of such a letter is enjoined to make several copies of the letter and mail them to friends. Failure to do so is said to break the chain and bring bad luck. The craze was especially prevalent following the World war.

"Motion Sickness"
When one gets sick while riding a train, a seaship, an airplane, or even in a swing, that is what the scientist likes to call "motion sickness." It is due mainly to a change in one's sense of equilibrium.

Will Rogers Picks A Story For This Spot

By WILL ROGERS

THERE'S a town in Missouri where the high-toned folks all go to the Episcopal church and the rest mostly goes to the Methodist and Baptist churches. The Episcopal church is small, and there ain't but one of it, but there's several of the others.

Well, one day a lady called on the pastor of a Baptist church and says, "Say, parson, I wonder if you'd mind coming to our house to see my husband. He's pretty sick, and he'd kinda like to talk to a minister. He gets lonesome for a good old hymn or something. He ain't a bad sort, and he goes to church regular when he's well." "Sure," he says, "I'll go right up with you now. So your husband is a church member? Are you, too?" "Oh yes, I always go." "Ain't it funny," says the minister, as they was getting near the house, "I don't seem to remember ever seeing you at church at all." "No," she says, "I reckon not. We go to the Episcopal church. We both got awful good families back East. But, you see, I couldn't ask our own minister to come to the house now, because there's only one Episcopal minister in town, and my husband's got the smallpox." (American News Features, Inc.)

SENATORS TO REMAIN SAME

Cronin Contemplates no Changes in Lineup of Washington Nine

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The 1933 edition of the Washington Senators will remain intact for next season's campaign, Joe Cronin, youthful pilot of the American league champions declared today as he prepared to depart for his San Francisco home.

Cronin expressed satisfaction with his present roster, giving unstinted praise to all his regulars and substitutes. He spent yesterday conferring with President Clark Griffith of the Washington club on plans for the 1934 pennant fight.

"We have a fine team and contemplate no trades at this time," Cronin said. "There are no weak spots in our regular line-up. A fine array of reserves is ready on the bench."

To the avalanche of criticism levelled against his managerial strategy during the world series, Cronin shrugged his shoulders and assumed a philosophical attitude. "The dividing line between heroes and goats in the national pastime certainly may be called microscopic," he stated.

HELP PREVENT FIRES OCTOBER 9TH TO 14TH

This week is set aside to emphasize the importance of guarding against fire. Do your part to prevent loss of life and property. Then, as always, follow these precautions for greater safety.

Extinguish matches before throwing away. Do not use inflammable substances for cleaning. Burn rubbish, put out camp fires, keep matches away from children! It's a patriotic obligation.

Fire Prevention Aids Recovery Program

For the first eight months of 1933 the National Board of Fire Underwriters estimates the national fire loss at $224,904,141, as compared with $310,078,321 for the same period in 1932.

With such a wonderful start on reduction of fire losses for the year, Fire Prevention Week, which started yesterday and continues through this coming Saturday, should give added impetus to the fire prevention movement and encourage the making of a record for low fire losses. This would be a blessing to the nation in its recovery struggle.

Fire causes the loss of thousands of lives annually. Men lose jobs and wages, the government collects no taxes on burned buildings. It is estimated that 43 per cent of business houses which burn annually, do not resume operations.

Insurance costs are based on the losses — whether your own property burns or not, you pay insurance because it is part of the cost of operation in all business. Let every man and woman be their own fire inspector — look at the heating plant, clean up the basement, take trash out of the attic, dispose of oil or paint covered rags, fix wiring connections and check a hundred other things you can do to prevent fire. Be careful of matches and smoking.

Farmers should be doubly concerned about fire and use every preventative measure possible, because they have little protection once a fire is started.

Fire Prevention Week draws attention to the importance of fire prevention and activity against the fire hazard should continue throughout the year.

Fire destroys life, property, progress and prosperity.

The old fashioned furnace carries fire menace in carbon clogged pipes. GAS HEAT is clean, regular, no trouble. And it is cheaper because it eliminates fire hazards, it saves furniture from soil, may be regulated to any temperature at any time.

GAS HEAT IS SAFE!

School Exhibit Is Proven Success In Initial Year

Jackson-twp schools carried off the bulk of the awards in the county school exhibit, an added feature of the Pumpkin Show. The school exhibit, made possible through untiring efforts of Superintendent D. L. Buchanan and of the various superintendents, principals and teachers of the county, is certain to be repeated next year and from then on the popular demand means anything.

County winners deserve much credit for the quantity, quality, variety and artistic arrangement of their displays. Those who did not win prizes deserve commendation for their efforts.

Following is the complete list of prize winners:

'DOUG' IN DENIAL OF ROYAL VOWS

PARIS, Oct. 10.—Reports he is planning to marry Lady Ashley, a former British actress, were denied today by Douglas Fairbanks through Tom Geraghty, screen writer and a lifelong friend.

"Regarding the Lady Ashley reports," Geraghty said, "this is the first time Mr. Fairbanks has heard it, and if he is going to marry her it is news to him."

Through Geraghty, Fairbanks refused to comment on a despatch reporting that Mary Pickford plans to file suit for divorce against him in Mexico within a few days.

"You may quote Mr. Fairbanks as saying that he feels any announcement whatsoever should come from Miss Pickford," Geraghty said.

Statistics Sought

STATISTICS compiled by Federal and State Labor departments, confirmed by national private agencies, including the American Federation of Labor, showed that the great army of unemployed numbered 14,000,000 last March. The consensus of estimates made by such sources up to mid-September was that about one fourth of that vast horde of disconsolate individuals had been restored to gainful employment through the operation of the National Recovery Act.

On October 9, about 3,000,000 employers of two or more persons throughout the country received a questionnaire from President Roosevelt with a message which read: "Two months ago I invited you to enter into an agreement with me to aid industrial recovery by shortening hours and increasing wages. The time has come to take stock. The information here requested is necessary to determine the progress we have made."

Employers were asked for comparative figures on employment and payroll totals for the two periods ending July 15, 1932, and October 14, 1933. These results to be available only to sworn employees of the Census Bureau and to be treated as strictly confidential, will disclose the actual situation. The extent to which additional efforts must be put forth and preparations for feeding and clothing and housing those unfortunate not yet absorbed into industry will then be known, and Americans must act accordingly. Despite depleted local treasuries, this terrible task confronts us and is utterly unavoidable.

Fortunately, the load will be lightened to the extent that our people enter into the second phase of the vitally essential public co-operation for which the President appealed and without which he assured us recovery is impossible. Now the duty is no longer that of employers. It is apparent that, with few exceptions, they are complying with the President's Reemployment Agreement. By this time the significance of the Blue Eagle is well understood. Under that symbol of recovery prices are sure to advance. Of that natural consequence of increased pay rolls in every industry the President warned us when he signed the Recovery Act on June 16. To serve our own purpose it is imperative that we now lay in our winter's supplies.

Germany's Aims

GERMANY proclaims at Geneva her peaceful intentions while seeking the right to rearm. She is pictured by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Reich minister of public enlightenment and propaganda, as concentrating her efforts and energies on reconstruction with no thought of preparing herself to wage war at present or in the future. She wishes to rearm only for defense purposes and to act as a barrier against the spread of communism.

France, however, remains skeptical, and the world will see some justification for this attitude. It will recall that during his reign the present emperor repeatedly emphasized his love of peace. At the same time, he continued to build up what he hoped would prove an invincible war machine. Nor did he fail to use the latter as a threat in support of his foreign policies.

A very similar situation exists in Germany today. Although professing love of peace, the expressed aims of Hitler point directly toward war. In no other way can Germany hope to realize the program laid out by Hitler, which includes territorial expansion and the recovery of German colonies lost as result of the war. Attainment at these aims hardly could come in any other way than by the waging of war.

France realizes this as must any student of present conditions. However desirous of peace the Hitler government may be, the government's program clearly forecasts war.

The Legion may not know it but those were orders from the commander-in-chief.

THAT'S MY BOY!

by FRANCIS WALLACE
 AUTHOR OF "HUDDLE"

SYNOPSIS

Tommy Randolph, future football hero, was "always different" even as a baby. Born in a tiny Middle West factory town, he was the delight of his humble parents, Mom and Pop. The latter, a durable Democrat, wanted to name the boy William Jennings Bryan, but Uncle Louie, another indubitable Democrat, prevailed in having the infant christened Thomas Jefferson. Sturdy little Tommy paid no attention to strange baby carriage ogles until Ole Liz, feared and aged colored woman, peered like a witch at him one day; he smiled, and Mom was amazed when the cackling crone put "a good wish" on him.

CHAPTER TWO

But Mom never forgot that good wish; and when Tommy was growing up she knew it was a good wish because the way things happened. He was always the same, never afraid of things kids were supposed to be afraid of; always getting his way and being the head of things; and when Ole Liz came along the street he would never run like the rest of the kids, even Pete, and keep his hand over his mouth like they did. The saying was that she counted their teeth and as many as she counted would fall out before long; of course, little children lost their baby teeth anyhow but just the same there was hardly anybody in Athens, big or little, who didn't shut their mouth when Ole Liz came along.

But the first time Tommy just stood his ground and waited; and when she came by he called out: "Boogy!"

Mom was afraid to look then because that was crossing the old thing; but instead of putting a bad wish on him, she just shook her head from side to side and smiled; and then Tommy smiled too; and after that when she came along and the other kids would run Tommy would walk beside her and smile; he never called her "boogy" any more. None of the other kids could make it out; they always looked at Tommy's teeth afterward; and Mom often thought it was from that that Tommy got to be different from the other kids, sort of afraid of nothing and better than the others; sometimes she thought he was afraid but just wouldn't admit it; she couldn't make it out; neither could the other kids; but Tommy grew up different. Everybody kind of expected him to be doing things always the other kids didn't.

Pop had tried to tame him down but he couldn't make him cry and Mom finally put her foot down and wouldn't have any more of Pop's beating him just to show who was boss. Tommy seemed to understand early that Pop was mostly talk and not really a hard man at all; and they sort of reached a compromise. When Tommy did something Pop put on a big fuss but didn't lay a hand on him; and then Tommy went on and did as he pleased afterward.

When Tommy finished the grammar grade Pop decided it was time for him to go to work and got him a job. Tommy did go down the first night and put in a turn carrying over on the vase shop; but he came home at eleven o'clock with his poor hands burnt with blisters and his poor face burnt red and said they had knocked off for the night; and Mom fed him and put him to bed.

At four in the morning Pop came home storming and said Tommy had run off and they didn't have a boy in the shop for the second turn; he was all for getting Tommy up and lambing him but Mom wouldn't have it. That morning when Tommy got up and Pop was still asleep she spoke to Tommy about it, pretending to be madder than she was but he always knew how far he could go with her. He was cute about it, she thought afterward. He promised he'd be back in time for work that night; so she put on some extra food and packed his basket along with Pop's; but when it came time for Pop to go to the factory there was no Tommy; and Pop went away raving, saying he would be ashamed at the factory for having such a son.

When Tommy came in like a dog that had lost its home, Mom didn't say what she had intended to but just got out the things on the stove and left him there by himself although it almost broke her heart. To do it, Pete was working day turn but he didn't say much to Tom either. He might have said a lot, Mom thought, because Pete was a great worker. When he finished at the factory he'd usually fool around the garage by the corner and they said already he could take a car apart and put it together again. Mom couldn't tell whether Pete just gave Tom up as a bad job or what. After supper Tom got dressed and went down town. The little rascal had a girl already.

The next morning Pop did wake him up and gave him a lambing but he couldn't make him cry and Mom didn't know what to do. She knew Pop was right and that something should be done about Tom before he became a scallywag altogether; but still, she knew Tom was different from the other boys and she couldn't believe he was really bad or even quite lazy although she admitted he was never the help around the house that Pete was.

It was bad enough, Mom thought, but it would have been worse if the neighbors had got hold of it. Mrs. Johnson wasn't so bad but if Mrs. Farrell ever got wind of it it would be all over town. Mrs. Farrell had a boy of her own and she was jealous of Tommy anyhow because he had always been a strapping boy while her Joie was a poor sickly sort of thing who had worn glasses since he was eight and would catch cold if the wind blew on him. Of course the boy couldn't help that and he was an all right boy, too, and real friendly like; he and Tommy got along all right if his mother stayed out of it.

Mom finally quieted Pop down; because even though he said he didn't care what the neighbors thought she knew that he did because nobody in town wanted that long tongue of Mrs. Farrell's on them; and by the time she got through telling it nobody would ever recognize what had really happened.

And the next day it blew over anyhow. Tom went out again after breakfast and came back all excited in the afternoon saying he had a job around the office of the News. Pop pretended to be scornful of this, saying that the newspaper was no good anyhow as it was a tool of the capitalists and only printed a lot of bunk about the big Democratic and that sort of stuff. The only decent thing about it was the sport page and that had too much football and not enough baseball and fights. Pop was a great one for Dempsey and Babe.

But there was really nothing much he could do about it as the job paid more than Tommy could make at the factory. Pop gave it up by saying it was a sissy job with no future to it and that the men at the factory would wonder what kind of a man he was to raise a son like that; but in his heart Mom knew he was secretly pleased no matter what he said.

Mom saw what was coming next and she knew what would happen. Late in August Tommy began to talk about going to high school and Pop hit the roof like it was some sort of disgrace to have a son who wanted to go to high school and was too good for the factory.

Mom didn't know what she thought except that she remembered the good wish Ole Liz had put on Tommy; and although she felt funny about it in church every Sunday Mom always told herself that it wasn't as if Tommy was under the devil's protection—it was just that the devil wasn't against him; and now that Ole Liz was dead and gone, Mom doubted that she had had much power anyhow but was maybe just a poor old thing that people talked about.

Uncle Louie came back from a convention just in time. He said to do it. Pete was working day turn but he didn't say much to Tom either. He might have said a lot, Mom thought, because Pete was a great worker. When he finished at the factory he'd usually fool around the garage by the corner and they said already he could take a car apart and put it together again.

Mom couldn't tell whether Pete just gave Tom up as a bad job or what. After supper Tom got dressed and went down town. The little rascal had a girl already.

Boy Scout News

TROOP 158

The meeting Monday night was in charge of Jr. Asst. Scoutmaster, Eliza Paxton and Sr. Patrol Leader, Mark G. Maxey.

After the roll call and the response to the flag the troop was led in some exercises by Scoutmaster Betts. The new patrol leaders were then assigned their assistants and names as selected are: Wolf patrol, James Price and Edward Ebert; Hawk, William Pile and Paul Miller; Panther patrol, Franklin Gitt and Raymond Francis; and the Cub Scout patrol, Dudley Hies and Paul Stivers.

A few games were played and the patrols gave their yell. Then announcements were given by Scoutmaster Retz. The troop was thanked by the Pumpkin Show Society for its services during the Show last week. The boys were informed that eight prize streamers were won by the troop in its window. These included four firsts, three seconds and one third. The firsts were won by Mark G. Maxey, Donald Beatty, Carl Reynolds, James Denman; the second by Mark G. Maxey, Robert Petts, and James Denman; and the third by James Denman. A new patrol grading system to go into effect next meeting was also explained.

After the troop was dismissed by repeating the scout benediction, sandwiches, furnished by the Legion Auxiliary, were enjoyed. Robert Petz has been appointed scribe and Bob Stivers, official test-passer.

Care of the First Teeth Important

One Way to Prevent Dental Worries in Later Life

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
 United States senator from New York
 Former Commissioner of Health,
 New York City

"BRUSH YOUR teeth twice a day and see your dentist at least twice a year," is familiar advice heard over the radio. Yet I wonder how many of the listeners in the nationwide hookup heard this warning.

In the sixteenth century, so-called dentists advised that "to keep teeth healthy eat a mouse once a month and fumigate the mouth with smoke from onion seeds." I can readily understand why such revolting advice as this should be spurned, but it is difficult to understand why any sensible person should fail to follow the advice of the modern dentist.

No one will deny that there has been a marked change in the medical and dental world as regards effort and care. In former years every effort was made to cure disease. Today emphasis is placed upon the prevention of disease as well as the cure.

At one time the extraction of diseased and decayed teeth was a common dental practice. Today the dentist helps prevent decay and so avoids the necessity of pulling teeth. With proper dental care this can be accomplished.

To keep good teeth through life is only possible when adequate dental care is given in childhood. The visit to the dentist should be made before the first baby teeth, the molars, appear. If everyone were given this early attention there is no doubt that fewer teeth would be lost in adult life and serious constitutional diseases would be avoided.

In addition to the necessary hygiene and care of the teeth, proper dental health requires a well balanced diet. The diet is especially important for young children before the appearance of the permanent teeth.

Bear in mind that a diet lacking in certain vitamins leads to faulty formation and decayed teeth. For this reason, fruit juices are advised for the infant as early as the fourth week. Strained orange juice or tomato juice, and cod liver oil, given in early childhood, will assure your child healthy and strong teeth.

I cannot overemphasize the importance of periodic visits to the dentist for the child and adult. Care of the temporary teeth will insure strong and sturdy teeth.

Do not be misled by the thought that since the first teeth are temporary they require little attention. This is wrong. Let me warn you again around neglect of the teeth. Do not assume that since you have no pain or discomfort your teeth are healthy. Whether they are or not only the dentist can determine.

Why Hospitals Use a Liquid Laxative

Hospitals and doctors have always used liquid laxatives. And the public is fast returning to laxatives in liquid form. Do you know the reasons?

The dose of a liquid laxative is measured. The action can be controlled. It forms no habit; you need not take a "double dose" a day or two later. Nor will a mild liquid laxative irritate the kidneys.

The right liquid laxative brings perfect movement, and there is no discomfort at the time, or after.

The wrong cathartic may keep you constipated as long as you keep on using it. And the habitual use of irritating salts, or of powerful drugs in the highly concentrated form of pills and tablets may prove injurious.

A week with a properly prepared liquid laxative like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will tell you a lot. A few weeks' time, and your bowels can be "as regular as clockwork." Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an approved liquid laxative which druggists keep ready for use. It makes an ideal family laxative; effective for all ages, and may be given to the youngest child. NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT OF ASSIGNEE
Notice is hereby given that the undersigned has been duly appointed and qualified by the Probate Court of Pickaway County, Ohio, as assignee of the estate of Hervey J. Swoyer, in trust for the benefit of the creditors of said Hervey J. Swoyer. Creditors are required to present their claims according to law.

ORION KING, Assignee.
Dated at Circleville, Ohio, this 2nd day of October, 1933.
(Oct. 3, 10, 17).

PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION OF OHIO
Proposing to repeal section 9 of article XV of the constitution of the state of Ohio, relative to prohibition.

Be it resolved by the General Assembly of the State of Ohio, three-fifths of the members elected to each house concurring therein:
That there shall be submitted to the electors of the state, for their approval or rejection at the election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, 1933, a proposal to repeal article XV, section 9, of the constitution of the state of Ohio.
It is further resolved: That at such election and in the manner provided by law in such form as the Secretary of State may designate, if the votes for the proposal shall exceed those against it, section 9 of article XV of the constitution of the state of Ohio shall be repealed and amended.

Adopted March 1, 1933.

UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, STATE OF OHIO.

Office of the Secretary of State, I, GEORGE S. MYERS, Secretary of State of the State of Ohio, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the Joint Resolution adopted by the 90th General Assembly of the State of Ohio on March 1, 1933, and now on file in my office and in my official custody as Secretary of State, and that the same is the true and correct copy of the Joint Resolution as filed in the office of the Secretary of State on March 7th, 1933, and proposed to amend the constitution of the State of Ohio by repealing section 9 of article XV, which reads as follows: "ARTICLE XV, SECTION 9. "The sale and manufacture for sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage are hereby prohibited. The General Assembly shall enact laws to make this provision effective. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the manufacture or sale of such liquors for medicinal, industrial, scientific, sacramental or other non-beverage purposes." IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my official seal at Columbus, Ohio, this 14th day of September, A. D. 1933.

(Seal) GEORGE S. MYERS, Secretary of State.

Winter, lame duck Wyoming congressman, who campaigned for Hoover in the last election. Pat Hurley, famous for having had a Jewish ghost writer produce his St. Patrick's Day speeches, now says: "If I don't have any more brains than a ghost writer I would still be driving a mule in an Oklahoma coal mine." One of General Johnson's chief hobbies is maps. He is especially fond of studying maps of the United States. Ambassador Rosso of Italy is an excellent connoisseur of wine. But he has also helped to guide Italian destinies through many rivalries with France. So at his table he serves not good French wine, but Italian Asti Spumanti. It could be better. Pittsburgh's multimillionaire former mayor, E. V. Babcock, has offered to sell the government at a bargain price, more than 50,000 acres of land that he owns in the Tennessee Valley. The property is the connecting link between the Great Smoky and Cherokee National Parks. If the government buys the land it will complete ownership of more than 1,000,000 acres in the Tennessee Valley.

PROF. ROOS IS SPEAKER AT MONDAY CLUB MEET

Prof. Frank J. Roos, Jr., Art instructor at Ohio university, Athens, was the speaker for the evening at the Monday club meeting held last night in the club rooms.

Miss Jeanette Reichelderfer, presided at the session. During the business transactions the following delegates were elected to attend the South East district meeting to be held at Jackson, O., Oct. 19 and 20.

Miss Carrie Johnson, Mrs. Glenn Nickerson and Mrs. Walter Kinder. Alternates are Mrs. Hulse Hays, Mrs. Clark Will and Miss Abbe Clarke.

At the close of the short business meeting the program was in charge of the architecture division.

Prof. Roos gave an illustrated lecture on "Development of Domestic Architecture in America."

The early settlers of New England were poor people and they reproduced in the new land the type of home they had been accustomed to having in the old, using the material at hand, mostly the fifteenth century type with the overhanging or projecting stories. This proved to be efficient in Indian fighting. Several of these old houses are to be found near Boston with the steep pitched roof, a necessity to throw off the heavy snows, very little ornamentation as the colonists' home was like his life—very simple and plain.

The oldest church in the country is St. Luke's at Jamestown, a truly Gothic type. The Southern homes were of different character, the planter being a much richer man with more refinement of living. The Rolfe house, built by the husband of Pocahontas, is one of the earliest brick houses in the South.

Westover, the ancestral home of the Byrd family, is a splendid example of early Georgian, both in details of construction and furnishings.

The major characteristics of the Georgian type were in broken perimeter, with the effect of dignity and formality, rich carvings and sweeping curves.

Several illustrations were given of the Southern Georgian home in contrast to the Northern Georgian type.

After the Revolution we have the Early Republic period, Bullfinch and Samuel McIntyre, L'Enfant, Jefferson, leading exponents of the classic revival. The classic revival period lasted until about 1840, then came the Romantic or revival of the Gothic, which in various forms is still in use.

Of the modern school, Frank Lloyd Wright, is the greatest, although not so well recognized in America because of his radical ideas. The Century of Progress exposition has brought many new ideas in building, with vertical and horizontal lines, the modern idea.

For centuries our only building materials were wood, stone, brick, stucco, but within the last ten years over 2,000 new materials have been perfected for use in home building, so we can expect to see revolutionary changes in architecture. We should admire each period for itself, no need for competition between them as each form fulfilled a definite necessity or function.

But in buying the new modern furnishings we should keep in mind that any modern art that is uncomfortable is bad art.

LEGION AUXILIARY INSTALLS OFFICERS

A covered-dish dinner at seven o'clock in charge of Mrs. Paul Betz, preceded the annual installation of officers of the American Legion Auxiliary Monday evening in the Post rooms at Memorial hall. Fall flowers and pumpkins decorated the tables for the dinner.

Mrs. E. T. Hedges, past district president, served as installing officer. New officers include: Mrs. John Ward, president; Mrs. I. W. Kinsey, first vice president; Mrs. Tom Lake, second vice president; Mildred Karshner, secretary and Mrs. Ferd Pickens, treasurer.

Mrs. Ward made several appointments. Mrs. James Cook, chaplain; Mrs. William Betts, child-welfare chairman; Mrs. B. T. Hedges, hospital chairman; Miss Katherine Mead, historian; Mrs. Gladys Wiggins and Mrs. Hazel Merz, sergeants at arms. Other appointive officers will be named at a later meeting.

The next meeting will be held Monday, Nov. 13, with Mrs. William Betts chairman of the lunch committee.

MRS. GLEN GEIB ENTERTAINS CLUB

Members of her bridge club and Mrs. Sterling Lamb and Mrs. Joe Burns were guests of Mrs. Glen Geib, S. Scioto-st., Monday evening, when she entertained at a pleasant evening of contract bridge.

Three tables were in play with high score prizes at the conclusion of the game going to Mrs. Walter Denman and Mrs. Lamb.

Awaiting Her Fate

Charged with smuggling a gun to her gangster husband with which he killed a keeper and himself while attempting a break from Raymond Street Jail, New York, Mrs. Cecelia McCormick is shown as she awaited the verdict in Kings County Court.

WESTMINSTER BIBLE CLASS HAS MEETING

The Westminster Bible class of the Presbyterian church held its October meeting Monday evening in the social room of the church which was attractively decorated in unique Halloween figures and paintings. The beauty of the room was enhanced by the soft glow from lamps and candles placed here and there.

A devotional period preceded the business meeting which was presided over by Mrs. Charles Smith, president. Minutes of the previous meeting were read by the class secretary, Mrs. Aletha Lucas, and Mrs. I. S. Shane gave the treasurer's report. Mrs. W. W. Robinson gave a report on new members that have been added to the roll and Mrs. Stanley Lewis reported on a project to raise funds for the Sidney Home.

At this juncture Mrs. E. S. Toensmeyer gave a splendid report on the first two chapters of a book on the Lives and Customs of the Women of Oriental Countries.

Mrs. George McDowell will give a report on the next two chapters of the book at the November meeting.

Mrs. D. L. Buchanan notified members that Mrs. Paul Gearhart would read the palms of members present and a silver offering from the source would be given to the class treasury. Mrs. Gearhart is a gifted palmist and her readings were a real pleasure to those participating.

A clever biblical contest was introduced by Mrs. Buchanan and prizes were awarded Mrs. E. S. Toensmeyer and Mrs. W. W. Robinson.

The members and guests were invited to a prettily appointed table, attractive with gay Halloween decorations, where delectable refreshments, in keeping with the spirit of Halloween were served.

The committee in charge of this delightful affair included Mrs. D. L. Buchanan, chairman, Mrs. J. O. Eades, Mrs. H. W. VanRiper, and Miss Margaret Clark.

SURPRISE DINNER HONORS BIRTHDAY

Mrs. Charles Yapple, E. Franklin-st., assembled several friends for dinner Sunday at her home as a pleasant surprise for her husband on his birthday anniversary.

Enjoying the affair were the honored guests, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Fox, of Hallsville; Mr. and Mrs. Denver Lutz and children, John Allen, Ellis, Leland, Esther and Benny of Amanda; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore and grandson, Junior, and Fred Maley, Mrs. Mary Arledge and Scott Moore of Groveport; Miss Charlotte Wendig of Westerville, and Mrs. Minnie Yapple and son, Glenn.

GARDEN CLUB WILL MEET THURSDAY

The Pickaway-co Garden club will meet in regular session Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Monday club rooms.

Mrs. C. C. Watts will give a paper on Fall Gardening and a question box will be in charge of Edwin Haacker.

Reports of the state convention being held in Columbus Tuesday and Wednesday will be given by the delegate, Mrs. James Moffitt.

M. E. CHURCH DAY IS THURSDAY

The Methodist Episcopal church will hold its monthly church day Thursday with the Women's Foreign Missionary society meeting at 10 a. m. Lunch will be served at 11:30 and the Ladies' Aid society will convene at 1 o'clock. The Women's Home Missionary society will hold its session at 1:30 p. m.

MRS. STEELEY TO ENTERTAIN

NEWS OF HOMES AND HOME FOLKS

VOL. 4. NO. 41 Published by STEVENSON'S Tuesday, October 10, 1933

We wish to thank those that helped to make possible the building of those three living rooms that we showed during the last 'Biggest and Best' Pumpkin Show.

One of our local doctors told the "editor" that his wife said that our window display was one of the most attractive in the entire Show. Lady, we thank you.

If our window was a success it was thru the kindness of the following persons who furnished the materials: Mrs. Irwin Boggs, Mrs. Grace Wrenthorn, Misses L. & E. Mader, and Delano Weaver.

We are also indebted to the following young ladies, who dressed in dresses of the same period that the various rooms represented: Mrs. Myles Beeler, Ruth Dunlap, and Margaret Butler, who represented ladies in the "Parlor of the 19th Century." Misses Grace Steele, Ann Vlerebome, Mary Hall, and Betty Morris, who posed as hostesses in the "Sitting Room of 1900." Misses Mary Ellen Phillips.

Marjorie Mader, Louise Helwagen, and Dorothy Fausnaugh, representing the ladies of today in "Today's Living Room."

As we have said before, if our display was a success, ladies and gentlemen, it was all due to your assistance and we thank you one and all. We believe that the visitors enjoyed it, judging from their interest.

Interest during the Show was centered in the Estate Heatrola. We were kept busy explaining why and how this famous heater keeps the floors warm at the base of the heater and why it gives more heat with less fuel. And our time was not wasted either, for several purchased before leaving the store. In fact, some of them demanded that their new purchases be installed at once. If you, gentle reader, were not one of those that placed their order for an honest, to-goodness Heatrola, just you drop in right now and let us explain the How and Why to you so that you, too, may enjoy "June warmth" during the coming winter.

There's a home up north of Roundtown that is enjoying as fine a coal range as ever graced a kitchen. It is in the very latest style and in gleaming ivory porcelain. You've guessed it - It's an Estate Heatrola range. And when it comes to value - we'll not take our hat off to any of them. If you don't believe that we have a real range, just drop in soon and look it over.

Did you notice those fine looking baby carriages in the baby parade during the Big Show? All of them, of course, were not WHITE-NEY carriages, but many of them were and they came from this store.

A housewife in Roundtown needed an extra bed for her home and it had to go in a room where she did not want a real bed. We sold her a dandy studio couch with inner-spring mattresses.

Get the Facts! Our Engineers Will Furnish Reliable Information On Your Heating Problems -Without Charge

Gas Heat Lowers Medical Expenses

Those Up - And - Down Temperatures Cause Most Winter Ailments

The house is too cold—you "fire up" the old-type furnace and the temperature becomes uncomfortably warm. You check the fire or it burns down—your body is overheated and the house is cold. Sooner or later, sickness follows this continuous procedure. You pay for medical supplies, perhaps for the services of a doctor, and always lose either in time off from work or in efficiency.

Gas Heat Presents Another Picture

This expense, discomfort and aggravation are not found in homes enjoying the even, automatically-controlled temperature of gas heat. Neither do such families pay excessive cleaning and redecorating charges made necessary by the damages of smoke, soot, ashes and furnace dirt. They are relieved of the expense of storing fuel, tending the furnace and removing ashes. These many incidental expenses bring the cost of using ordinary fuel well above the amount paid for the great convenience of gas heat.

When you know ALL the facts, you will want gas heat as a measure of economy. Phone The Gas Company for complete information on how to—
